IONA CRICKET CLUB

On Saturday the 5th of October a momentous occasion occurred at the Iona Cricket Ground, the first ball was bowled on the brand new 8 foot pitch!

In 1995 when Bob Rogers revived the Iona Cricket Club, a narrow 6 foot concrete slab was poured at the current Murray Rd site. For several years “roll out” carpet mats were laid out every Saturday for cricket to be played on. The ICC then went “upmarket” and got a brand new surface glued down. This was played on for many a year, much to the consternation of visiting teams complaining about the “narrow bloody pitch”. Every opposition bowler that ever bowled a bad ball blamed the “bloody narrow Iona pitch”!

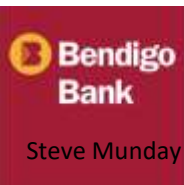

So finally, after many years, quite an amount of fundraising and much hard work from club members, and a huge thanks to City2Sea Landscapes the old slab was removed and an 8 foot slab was poured, a new synthetic surface was laid and the Iona Cricket Ground was ready for cricket season 2019/2020!

Iona’s division 2 team played Longwarry in the first game on the new pitch. With Longwarry winning the toss and electing to bat, Jarryd Bain got things underway with the first wicket on the new strip and followed up with 2 more. Both Kieran Lenders and Chris Phelan also took 3 wickets, and Jayson Barwick bowled a miserly 8 overs for 8 runs, but these efforts could not stop Longwarry amassing 9/165 on a very slow Iona ground. Iona’s chase started well with Michael Neilson (55) and Micky Taylor (27) keeping things under control, but unfortunately a string of middle and lower order wickets restricted Iona to being dismissed for 123.

The Iona division 4 team played away vs Warragul and started brilliantly by putting on 8/173. The ever reliable Graeme Rankin was the mainstay putting on a brilliant 82 and was ably supported by contributions from Craig Lenders (19) and Sam Accardi (29*). Unfortunately however this score proved not to be enough by the closest of margins with Mick Scully’s awesome performance of 5/17 and Lachlan Howard’s 2/14 not being enough to stop Warragul from reaching 9/174 in the last over! Not the result that the “Swamp Tigers” wanted from round one, but plenty of positives to come out of it. Onwards and upwards for the “Swampies”!

Out with the old and in with the new.

Applications open: Youth Council Learning and Leadership Program 2020

Cardinia Shire Council is searching for nine young people aged 16–21 years to take part in the Youth Council Learning and Leadership Program 2020.

Now in its third year, the program gives participants the opportunity to gain insight into local government as well as building leadership skills.

Program participants will get the chance to:

- facilitate an election to elect a Chair and Deputy Chair
- visit Parliament House
- attend and run monthly meetings
- debate against Councillors and Council officers
- attend local community events
- be supported to develop and achieve group and individual goals for the year.

Successful participants will be selected by Cardinia Shire’s Councillors and chosen for their leadership qualities, desire to help build a stronger local community, interest in having a say on local issues that affect young people, and their interest in local government.

The program commences with an induction day in January 2020 and meetings will be run on the first Wednesday of every month, 5–7pm, from February until December.

Cardinia Shire Mayor Cr Graeme Moore encouraged the shire’s young people to apply for the highly beneficial program.

“This Youth Council Learning and Leadership Program is an excellent way to help develop leadership capacity in young people living in Cardinia Shire,” Cr, Moore said.

“It’s a great opportunity to learn more about local government, receive mentoring from current Councillors, participate in a mock election, strengthen debating skills, and attend local events.”

Applications close on Saturday 2 November 2019. For more information, or to apply, visit Council’s website at www.cardinia.vic.gov.au/youthcouncil or call the Youth Services team on 1800 4 YOUTH.

Bunyip boy becomes principal of Columba

The new principal of Columba Catholic Primary School in Bunyip will feel right at home when he walks into the school. The son of Bunyip's well-known former newsagents, Joe and Camilla Greco, Mr Andrew Greco will take up the role in time for the start of the 2020 school year. Andrew is currently Deputy Principal at St Michael's Primary School in Berwick, and has a broad range of experience as a Catholic educator and school leader. "I am grateful to be welcomed back into the community I grew up in as the principal of Columba. "The Columba school community has been built on tremendous care and kindness for all students and families. We will work hard to maintain the strong culture of faith and learning, and continue to provide a very special environment for the children we teach," he said. The school's current principal, Ms Jan Gubbins, is set to retire at the end of 2019. After 13 years at the helm, Ms Gubbins said she is happy that Columba will be left in good hands. "I know Andrew will lead our wonderful school community with integrity, enthusiasm and wisdom, maintaining the school's position as a high-quality provider of affordable Catholic education in Bunyip," she said. Director of Catholic Education for the Diocese of Sale, Ms Maria Kirkwood, thanked Ms Gubbins for her service, and congratulated Mr Greco on his appointment. "Andrew's deep understanding of the community in Bunyip will be an asset as he works to build on the strong foundations laid by Jan during her time at Columba. I encourage Andrew and the school community to draw strength from our loving God as they continue to strive for excellence and equity in all that they do," Ms Kirkwood said

Bushfire Recovery

Six months after a bushfire or major emergency is often a major milestone for impacted communities. It's when people start to realise there is still a great deal of recovery work to do, which can lead to fatigue.

Clinical Psychologist David Younger, who is working with bushfire-affected communities across Cardinia Shire and the wider Gippsland area, said this was an important time to check in with friends and neighbours and think about your own recovery.

"It is important for community members to start to reintroduce balance into their lives and to make time for other important activities, such as spending quality time with family and friends," Mr Younger said.

"Experience tells us that around the six-month mark people start to feel tired and sometimes irritable and angry from the physical and emotional turmoil they've experienced.

"If you know someone who is struggling, it's a good idea to check in on them to see if they are ok. Conversations about traumatic events and how people are coping can feel uncomfortable, but it's important to let people know you are there for them. Sometimes, just giving people an opportunity to feel heard is enough to make a big difference."

Cardinia Shire Mayor Councillor Graeme Moore said

Council continued to provide assistance for residents in the fire-affected areas, and encouraged people to reach out and access the free support that is available.

"The bushfire recovery centre continues to operate at the Tonimbuk Hall supported by range of services and Council is producing a regular community newsletter informing residents in fire-affected areas of the latest news and opportunities for assistance," Cr Moore said.

"Council staff and a number of other services will remain in the local area providing support, advice, community meals and range of other services as the clean-up and rebuilding work continues."

The bushfire case support program, established by the Victorian Government, continues to help people navigate the support services available including mental health services, family violence support, and services for repairing and rebuilding damaged properties.

Where are you and your family at six months on from the fires?

David Younger, a Clinical Psychologist working with bushfire affected communities across Gippsland cautions that the six-month mark after a bushfire is very important.

It is often the time when people who have been impacted by the bushfires are just starting to realise there is still so much work to do, yet they have already been working incredibly hard for an extended period of time.

If these people continue to involve themselves in recovery related tasks at the same high pace and intensity without making time for other aspects of life, such as spending good quality time with family and friends, then they place their mental and general health and wellbeing at risk.

“For many community members the distress and heightened emotions experienced immediately after the fires will have gradually reduced over time; however for others this will not be the case,” he said.

“While many people seek support early, there are those who may be isolated and feel disconnected. It is important that communities identify these people and work to support and assist them when possible.” Those who may have previously experienced a mental health difficulty prior to the fires may also find life more challenging. Some people may start to feel overwhelmed, depressed, sad or highly anxious.

People may try to control their reactions by avoiding or closing off their feelings. This does not help the underlying issue and in time it can make it worse.

“If you notice that the balance in life has been lost, that you are just too busy for anything positive, or that you are experiencing changes in your mood or physical health, these are signs that it is time to start taking breaks so that the body and mind can rest and recuperate,” he said.

“If you know someone who is struggling, it’s a good idea to check in on them to see if they are ok; and while conversations around traumatic events and how people are coping six-months on can feel uncomfortable, it is important to let people know you are there for them. Sometimes, just giving people an opportunity to feel heard is enough to make a big difference.”

The bushfire case support program, established by the Victorian Government following the 2019 Gippsland bushfires continues to help people navigate the various support services available including mental health services; family violence supports; and services for repairing and rebuilding damaged properties.

To date the bushfire case support program has worked with over 730 households.

Anyone who is struggling to cope and who needs additional support can call 1800 560 760 for more information.

Local police update

(27th August to 25th September, 2019)

By Danny Hower, Victoria Police Sergeant

Hello,

We hope everyone is going well and getting out and about with spring. You can help shed the winter coat and enjoy things by getting involved in any one of the many local groups and activities available which keep people busy and our area great. Every week I bump into something or someone new in the area who is putting in valuably in some form and I love it.

There is still a lot of bushfire recovery work going on north of the highway. People and the environment are very sensitive following on from the fires in March so please be understanding and respectful to the community and area accordingly.

We all love our Bunyip State Park but unfortunately it remains closed after the fires for the same reasons with really obvious signs and gates indicating so. We continue to work very closely with Parks Victoria as they try to rehabilitate the area and we've had some good results with follow up enquiries and identifying offenders. You will struggle to find a lawful excuse to be in the Park without permission and even entering without lawful reason is trespassing and dis-respectful, let alone; ramming, cutting, damaging or stealing the gates; hunting with firearms in close proximity to Parks staff (where are they?); dumping and burning cars; stealing vegetation and firewood; and ripping the ground apart.

Investigations – to the general public in real life they're mostly a quiet thing that sneaks up on you.

Please check the PARKS VICTORIA website for information on closures and alternatives.

Things sort of feel like they're settling down after a busy year and it feels good to report back with only a months' worth. Some of the police stuff we've been involved in or had reported to us locally were:

Forty people & vehicles being field contacted for suspected criminal behaviour; sixteen in Bunyip State Park/Tynong Nth/Tonimbuk area; thirteen in Kurth Kiln; four in Garfield; three in Garfield Nth; two each in Nar Nar Goon & Bunyip.

Ten Family Incident reports; six at the same place in Nar Nar Goon; three in Tynong (same); and one in Garfield. Seven people going to court for criminal or traffic matters and nine traffic infringements notices (fines) issued. Seven referrals for counselling and assistance to other professional agencies.

Five people arrested on outstanding warrants - with thanks to those who hand themselves in.

Three firearms storage inspections conducted.

Two Family Violence Intervention Orders being served.

One person interviewed for a court drivers licence restoration.

Touch wood, the general local crime front seems to have quietened for the moment (possibly for a reason), but some local investigations involve:

A hit and run vehicle collision in Nar Nar Goon.

A car from St Kilda dumped and burnt in Tonimbuk.

Two searches for missing people, including a major bush search with a very sad ending.

A search warrant in Garfield.

Two assaults; one in Bunyip between two people known to each other; and another in Nar Nar Goon.

A twenty three year old Bunyip man being charged with drug offences & a twenty two year old Garfield Nth man being cautioned for the same incident.

Thefts of; a push bike in Nar Nar Goon; a caravan in Iona; number plates in Tynong; personal items from a car parked in a Bunyip State Park car park.

Damage to toilets at a Bunyip sporting club.

Theft of a motor car from a facility in Maryknoll which was later located in Pakenham.

A burglary and theft of a small amount of domestic items in Nar Nar Goon.

Again - thanks for every ones help. Please keep aware of your surroundings and keep looking after each other.

For immediate emergency service assistance and attendance please ring 000. Victoria Police also now have another number – 113444 for any other police assistance or reporting, or you can contact us on any of below details.

Danny Hower, Victoria Police Sergeant 26184

The Mount Cannibal and District Preservation Group would like to thank the many community members who attended our community meeting regarding Hanson's proposed Bunyip North Quarry on Wednesday evening.

Hanson has recently altered the scope of their project to dig a deeper hole and extract more stone in a shorter amount of time - this means more trucks along our roads and the Bunyip/Tonimbuk intersection. Hanson won't tell the community how many more trucks this will mean, but based on their original estimates, they will have 530 truck movements per 12 hour day - meaning a vehicle passing every 82 seconds. This will happen five and a half days a week. Maintenance will occur for one and a half days a week.

Hanson has stated that this quarry will only create 7-10 new jobs.

After more than 12 years fighting this proposal, Hanson's EES is drawing to a close and we need your help more than ever. You can:

Savoy Opera Company Inc. is bringing Gilbert and Sullivan’s best loved songs to the stage with their new production Oh Bliss, Oh Rapture! The performance will be held at Bunyip Hall on Saturday 26 October at 2:00 pm.

Gilbert & Sullivan collaborated together on fourteen comic operas, including The Mikado, Pirates of Penzance and HMS Pinafore. The talented duo had a fantastic repertoire of scores and Savoy Opera Company will provide a taste of each in Oh Bliss, Oh Rapture! Songs such as Three Little Maids, I am the Very Model of a Model Major and When I Was a Lad are but a few of the songs that will feature in this comprehensive production.

This production will delight newcomers and enthusiasts of Gilbert & Sullivan alike. In seeking to maintain traditions of the genre, artistic director, Stee Cordelia, creates a visually stunning stage production. Whilst musical director, David Campbell, weaves the threads and themes of Arthur Sullivan’s magnificent scores into all aspects of the show.

The cast is headed by a collection of passionate singers, bringing together a wealth of experience and love of the Gilbert & Sullivan tradition. The company itself has been active under various names since 1943 and prides itself on presenting high calibre productions of the works of Gilbert & Sullivan to the city of Melbourne and regional Victoria.

A burglar has just made it into the house he's intending ransacking, and he's looking around for stuff to steal. All of a sudden, a little voice pipes up, "I can see you, and so can Jesus!" Startled, the burglar looks around the room. No one there at all, so he goes back to his business. "I can see you, and so can Jesus!" The burglar jumps again, and takes a longer look around the room. Over in the corner by the window, almost obscured by curtains, is a cage in which sits a parrot, who pipes up again, "I can see you, and so can Jesus!" "So what," says the burglar, "you're only a parrot!" To which the parrot replies, "Maybe, but Jesus is a rottweiler!"

New Strikers Complex Ready for Next Season by Roman Kulkewycz

Whilst working at Berwick Potteries, Tony Arrigo of Bunyip cherished a seemingly impossible dream – he would love to see soccer played in Bunyip. But because of work and family commitments, it was just a fanciful dream with little expectation of coming to fruition.

However, as retirement loomed, the possibilities of his dream gnawed away at Tony and he often daydreamed of soccer being played in Bunyip. Travelling one day with friend Alan Cole, Tony sheepishly mentioned his desire and Alan's encouraging response and offer of support boosted Tony's resolve and he thought that maybe, just maybe this might work.

A public meeting was called to gauge community interest which was encouraging and a secretary in Roman Kulkewycz who was recommended by Councillor Bill Pearson joined Alan as treasurer with Tony as president and a core committee was formed in 2008. Craig Marks, an experienced player and coach took charge of the players.

Originally the club was named The Bunyip & District Junior Soccer Club – the Strikers! But soon it was realised that for the club to have a viable future, it was necessary to play seniors as well.

Support of all user groups at the Bunyip Recreation Reserve and other local sporting clubs was vital to allow for the club to develop. The support was overwhelmingly positive.

Support of the Cardinia Shire Council was also a key in the club getting off the ground.

To play at the highest level of competition Tony pushed to have the club compete in the FFV (Football Federation of Victoria) competition. To do this the Club had to meet strict accreditation conditions. Sheer hard work by the committee ensured this happened and continued to propel the club forward to the large expanding and successful organisation that it has become today.

There are many stories of hard work that paid off. Much work had to be done developing the ground into a playable surface. In fact, the pitches were so good that during wet years schools used them to play competition on as theirs were under water. Many visiting clubs marvelled at the condition of the grounds and each time they visited, something new was being added to the club facilities.

But it all boils down to the work of just one man, Tony Arrigo who had a vision and backed his dream with hard work and perseverance. Tony was suitably made a Life member of the club on its 10th anniversary. A fitting acknowledgment.

Currently the club is in the process in building a huge million dollar plus complex which will encompass clubrooms, change rooms and a lounge area for supporters to watch games in comfort.

Bunyip Kindergarten

Over the winter holidays there was plenty of action at Bunyip Kindergarten with our long-awaited upgrade of the "Bike Track" and "Mud Pit". The renovation included paving of the track and entrance to the sandpit shed, widening of the mud pit, new logs and boulders to climb, and fresh soil and mulch. The upgrade is a HUGE hit with the children and a great asset for our kindergarten! We would like to thank Rick Williams of Baw Baw Landscaping for completing the works. The project was possible because of the generous grant funding received from Bunyip Community Op Shop, Garfield Op Shop and Pakenham Racing Club.

My Boyhood Memories

By Roman Kulkewyc

I remember how going out anywhere was such a big occasion in our household. We didn't have a car and most of our transport was on Shanks' Pony or the train for distant travel. Sometimes a kindly neighbour would give us a lift in his car. We also rode bicycles. I rode one to school, to Mass, fishing, rabbiting and visiting mates. I would meet with my mates on weekends and we would ride our bicycles up and down the main street and look into shop windows and dream of owning some of those items on display.

One Sunday we found ourselves in the yard of a tractor dealership and we were jumping on and off those tractors pretending that we were ploughing paddocks. Suddenly someone pressed the "wrong" button and the huge tractor started to move, broke through the chain fence at the front and proceeded to move until it stopped in the middle of the main street. We tucked our trousers into our socks and took off. To this day I still don't know what happened after that. But I did see that tractor parked back in the same spot in the yard the next day.

We made regular Sunday afternoon visits to the local bakery where a friend of the family, Tony worked. Maffra had two bakeries in those days, both owned by the same owner. One bakery solely baked bread whilst the other one (where Tony worked) baked all of the cakes, pastries and pies. No such thing as strict health regulations in those days. I will just give you an example. The bread bakery would cook the pie meat and deliver it to the pie bakery in three huge aluminium saucepans. The meat was so hot that you couldn't touch it so it was left out on the back porch to cool whilst Tony would prepare the pie pastry into the baking trays. When the meat cooled sufficiently enough he would dip his whole hand into the saucepan and scoop a handful of meat into the pastry dish. Once he had meat in all of the pies – a batch of pies would have been about 100 - he would then cover the lot with a sheet of pastry and use a large rolling pin over the baking tins which would cut the pastry out. Then a prick on top with a fork to make a steam escape hole and into the oven they'd go. I must mention here that after the pie meat was left on the back step to cool it started to form a crust as it cooled. This crust got thicker as it cooled and allowed huge blow flies to settle onto the surface and blow the meat. By the time that Tony was ready to put the meat into the pies, the surface of the meat in each saucepan was white with maggots crawling all over it.

Tony just got a piece of wood from the woodheap and simply stirred in the maggots until they blended in with the meat and could not be seen. He said that was ok as they still had to go into the pies and be cooked in extreme temperatures and they wouldn't do anyone any harm after that. The Maffra pies had and still do to this day a very fine reputation and in East Gippsland you can hear customers specify a Maffra pie when ordering pies. I wonder what the "secret" ingredient was that gave them their distinctive flavour. I'd say that the meat is cooled in a more hygienic manner these days. Even though the meat in the pies had lots of maggots mixed in, me and my mates still continued to eat them. Visiting Tony made me into a connoisseur of cakes and pastries and I knew all about them. He was an extremely good, kind and patient man. When I got older, only then did it dawn on me as to how patient he was with us.

Dad worked for the Victorian Railways and he would get an Annual Leave travel voucher to ride the trains with his family anywhere in Victoria. On these occasions we would make what I considered a huge journey to Melbourne to visit friends. We mainly went to Newport and Pascoe Vale or to Noble Park. Once I found out that we were going to Melbourne I was so excited that I found it very difficult to concentrate on anything else but the forthcoming holiday. Thoughts of the train travel and what I would do when we got there consumed my thoughts all day and also resulted in many sleepless nights. Such was my joy at the prospect of travelling to Melbourne. Dad made sure that I didn't know too much in advance when we were going anywhere as this would stop me from continuously pestering him and asking all sorts of silly questions.

On the night before we were to go to Melbourne I would lay awake in bed for most of the night planning every moment of my holiday. My excitement would build as dawn started to break. As soon as the others would start to get out of bed I was up quick as a flash, dressed and rarin to go. I was so worried that we would miss our train. At the Maffra station we would board the little two carriage Rail Motor which would take us to Traralgon to meet up with the Melbourne train from Bairnsdale. This train had many carriages and was pulled by a magnificent big black steam engine. The engine would hiss and puff steam as it sat impatiently and waited at the platform for all of the passengers to board. During most of the journey between Maffra and Flinders Street I had my nose pressed up against the window taking in every detail as the train moved along its journey. I was sure that life couldn't get any better than this. We used to go on day trips to Seaspray which is part of the Ninety Mile Beach. This was due to the generosity of George and Maria. George was one of the first Ukrainians in Maffra to buy a car. I used to admire the back fins of his 1959 Holden and marvel at the speedo which was an orange coloured bar that would extend in an arc around the speedometer showing the increasing speed instead of a needle. George and Maria were lovely kindly people who had a son and two daughters. I cannot remember how the 5 of them and the 4 of us would fit comfortably into the car whenever they took us out. Then there was the migrant's friend Cyril. Cyril and his family were great supporters of the migrants in the early years at Maffra. Cyril always had a car full of kids each morning to take to school. I think that his kids eventually got bikes to go to school which allowed him to pile in extra migrant children into his car each morning and ferry them off to school. He and his wife were devout Catholics and openly practised their faith by acts of kindness and love towards their fellow men. The poor Hurley's had to also put up with many migrant kids when television came out in 1956. They were one of the first to buy a TV in Maffra and always made their lounge room available to the neighbourhood kids. At about 4.00pm each afternoon us kids would descend into the Hurley household to watch cartoons and the Mickey Mouse Club with Annette Funicello. The Hurley's only had access to their TV only after all of the visiting kids had left. But they never complained, in fact they cheerfully welcomed us all into their home. By 6 O'Clock we were starting to get hungry and there was homework to do, so by that time we had generally gone home. I can still remember vividly going fishing with my father in the Macalister River at Bellbird Corner on the way to Newry. All the gear, including a large jam tin of garden worms was packed somehow onto our bikes and off we'd go on the 5 mile ride. Of course we were too poor to afford fishing rods and used only hand lines. The river had an abundant supply of trout and a smaller species of trout known as the "Sand Trout" which was a beautiful eating fish. I think it is extinct now. Then we would ride our bikes rabbiting and take along our dog who would sniff out the rabbits and give chase until he caught it or it got away. They were great times. Even though he was busy with work, I always seemed to spend plenty of time doing things with my dad and now I cherish those times we spent together.

October/November– Gardening Calendar for Temperate Australia

(<http://deepgreenpermaculture.com/>)

October is the mid-spring period, flowers bloom in abundance, the warmer weather with rain bringing ideal conditions for lush plant growth. The cold weather hasn't quite finished yet, cold nights and even frosts can still be expected, along with strong winds, so it's important to protect tender plants and seedlings.

October

- Plant evergreen shrubs and trees (this includes citrus trees).
- Relocate evergreen shrubs - they can now regrow their roots during the mild weather.
- Set up windbreaks (e.g. plastic tree guards) to protect newly planted evergreen trees and shrubs.
- Plant potted fruit trees and vines (having roots, can be planted anytime, best in spring & autumn).
- Relocate any self-seeded annuals to better locations in the garden.
- Tidy up overgrown plants and tie growing vines back to supports or wires.
- Continue propagating plants by taking cuttings or layering (both ground layering and air layering).

- Feed brambleberries (raspberries, blackberries & hybrids) and currants.
- Last chance to remove dead winter growth, and to dig up and divide perennial plants
- Clean out ponds and water gardens, divide waterlilies, plant new aquatic plants

November

- Mulch around fruit trees and plants to retain moisture in the soil and prevent water loss from evaporation (keep mulch away from plant stems and trunks as this can cause stem rot/collar rot). Mulch strawberries by placing straw underneath to keep the berries off the soil.
- Propagate strawberries from runners.
- Plant potted fruit trees and vines (having roots, can be planted anytime, best in spring & autumn).
- Tie growing vines back to supports or wires.
- Propagating plants by taking softwood (green) cuttings from now till January (after which they harden off).
- Last chance to plant evergreen shrubs and trees (this includes citrus trees).
- In ponds and water gardens, thin out existing aquatic plants, continue planting new ones, fertilise aquatic plants and feed fish regularly.

TALKIN' ...FISHIN' POETRY IN MOTION

After many friendly fishing trips on the streams and rivers with my mate Greg, the friendly competition between a Spin-man and a Fly-man came to a head when the balance of the days catch steadily always seem to fall my way, 'The Way of the Fly.

A loss of a $2.50 fly compared to a $20 Lure only adds to the insult, the promise of cheaper fishing tackle and better angling results was a tempting proposition for him, and so begins the corruption of the spinner. After a day at his favourite Tackle shop kitting out with the latest vest, tools, fly rod, fly reel and line and finally a selection of the essential flies and a few of the fancy ones too, the whole experience didn't seem so cheap after all.

A Fly line cast well is a thing of beauty to watch, even seems in slow motion at times, a poor cast in the air is ugly and as frustrating as tangled underwear.

Watching the action kind of reminds me of a cross between the stance of a golfer and the dance of the 'sugar plum fairy' waving her wand around between 10 and 2 o'clock, tugging and pulling line frantically trying to send that poor little fly out to the greatest distance possible, only to end up in a tree or coiled up on the ground behind him. I don't dare include a real hook in that assembly.

The caring assurance that all will be fine hasn't sunk in yet, the training or coaching only served as a distraction, a few "use the force Luke" or "wax on wax off" didn't cut it either. Casting requires patience, concentration and timing some of the skills you'll also going to need when you break it to the wife how much you've spent (I prefer invested) indulging into a sport you know nothing or very little about.

A couple of clinics in the closed season only helps to complete the process and build the case for the Flyman, inspiring action videos, group discussions, demos and numerous magazines with plenty of high quality glossy photos covers it all.

As time progresses he is becoming more confident and somehow threatening, looks like it's 'game on' again. A few more trips this season should prove my point on the effectiveness of the fly, but it might be at the cost of my own demise.

We will compete on a more level field now, lookout for spin gear going on eBay soon!
